Fuller's forces are at work. It is realized that there is a foe worthy of any man's steel in Jake Loeb, and not only Mr. Fuller but all of his henchmen are pulling strings by which they hope to land the present mayor in the chair again. Nothing can be urged against Mr. Loeb, and a great many republicans are not friends of Mr. Fuller. If they vote as they say they will Mr.

RECKLESS DRIVING.

A Hackman Causes a Runaway-A Man scene of a lively runaway, resulting from the recklessness of Robert Peletier, a back driver. The outcome of it is that George Warner is lying at his home at Park avenue with an ugly gash on his head, which may result seriously. At last accounts he was resting very comfortably, but for a lease both the vehicles, the buggy nearly tipped over and the horses started to run and dashed through Main street at breakneck speed. When they reached Bridge street the team turned towards Clore, and while passing over the plank walk the buggy tipped to one side on a sharp curve and hurled Mr. Warner out in front of DeWitt & Arnold's meat market. He was insensible for a few seconds, and was carried in the butcher shop, where a physician dressed the wound, which is a deep cut in the left jaw running to the top of the head.

Voters who have not already registered this year must do so in person to,day if they wish to take part in the city election on Monday. Registry offices open from 1 until 10 p. m.

Turning into Clore street the horses still kept up their mile a minute gait until they reached Welch's feed store, where a delivreached Welch's feed store, where a delivery team were struck and started on a run, but they were caught a block away. One of Mr. Warner's horses fell down, worn out and stunged, but the other extricated himself from the harness and continued his gait up to the stable, into which he ran. Notwithstanding the wild race they ran neither horse is injured.

The Warde Engagement.

The tragedian Frederick B. Warde, supported by an excellent company, is to give five performances at Ming's opera house, beginning Wednesday evening, April 10, with "Virginius," which affords him an excellent opportunity for the display of his talents. The following evening the oldtime favorite, "The Mountebank," will be played, with Mr. Warde as Belphegor. "William Tell" is to be rendered Friday evening, and for the Saturday matinee a evening, and for the Saturday matines a romantic drama based upon incidents of the French revolution, and entitled "Gaston Cadol," is on the bills. The engagement concludes with "Richard III.," on Saturday evening. The company include such well known performers as Misses Adele Belgarde and Stella Boniface and L. J. Henderson. The engagement should be specified in the second of J. Henderson. The engagement should is a successful one, it merit can make it so.

McClure on the West Granite Deal--At Castle and Missoula Counties,

The St. Louis papers daily teem with gossip and interviews on West Granite affairs. Charles McClure is the latest one who has been heard from, and his talk in two papers doesn't agree. In the Globe Democrat, he confirms the report of the deal made in this city, while in the Republic he said a proposition had been made, but that he was not a party to it. He also discountenances the report that the Elizabeth and Bi-Metallic veins are identical but Helena gentlemen state that McClure nor nobody else, excepting Charles Clark, has been in the Elizabeth mine, and he cannot therefore give a competent opinion of the property. There has been a good deal of kicking in St. Louis ever since the details of the Helena deal became known, the main objection being that outsiders could step in and get the stock for 60 cents a share while they have to pay a dollar or more.

In the Globe Democrat, among other things Mr. McClure is quoted as saying: "I know nothing of any purchase made by a syndicate of Granite Mountain directors. and I myself have not bought any stock in the West Granite company. If the parties in Montana who control the West Granite If they vote as they say they will Mr. Loeb's election is assured, despite the efforts of the mayoral forces to corral the P. O. S. A. vote and the foreign vote at one and the same time. The entire force of city employes can be relied upon to do their utmost for the re-election of Mr. Fuller.

Another thing was made apparent yes terday, and that is that the McCutcheon-Harrison faction are in favor of Fuller for mayor. Col. I. D. returned yesterday and will make his influence feit. The colonel will get in his work to-day. He was seen last evening, but would not say anything about affairs locally.

"Were you in Washington all the time since leaving Helena?" was asked.

"No, I was in New York City for two days."

"Was your visit to Washington fraught with any political importance?"

"Not particularly so. I just went on a local state of the mayor control the West Grantite concern have succeeded in forming a pool of some kind to put the mine on its feet, it can only result in good to the stockholders. Change of management or directors, however, will not make the mine more valuable. If it has been done, the mine itself will be of no more valuable. If it has been done, the mine itself will be of no more valuable that it is of any value. I have said this before and have no apologies to make now. The vein in the Rattlesnake and Sunny Side is the same as in the Elizabeth, and has no value in it from the present outlook, and if it has it is yet to be developed. We did not go out west to see the West Grantite concern have succeeded in forming a pool of some kind to put the mine on its feet, it can only result in good to the stockholders. Change of management or directors, however, will not make the mine on its feet, it can only result in good to the stockholders. te. Now, this is my private opinion, and I want it taken as such." "This flat denial on your part, Mr. Mc-Clure, will make somewhat sensational reading for those interested, in view of what has been published," was suggested.
"I do not deny that a proposition of some sort has been made," he said, and then, in ort has been made," he said, and then, in reply to questions, he said; "Yes, I will admit that a proposition has been made by the West Granite company, and that it is now under consideratior, but the matter has not yet been fully consummated. The proposition comes from those fully authorized to make it and entirely competent to carry it out. I can not now give you the exact terms of the proposition further than to say that the original publication in the Globe Democrat was correct. The proposition is to a private syndicate of individuals, and what will be done with it I am not now authorized to say. For my part I think we will lose the money we put in it. It is practically a speculative venture, and we can only take our chances, applying strictly business principles to the development of the property."

From further conversation with Mr. Mc. Clure the inference was drawn that the consummation of the deal is a certainty—that, in fact, there remained nothing to be done but to formally close the transaction, by paying the price and taking the property.

A correspondent at Castle says that the

The Hensley brothers have plenty of ore to run on besides that from the Cumberland mine, in which they have no interest. The propose to treat all the custom ore they can get and assert they can give miners better returns than they can get anywhere else, and insist that the statement that a smelter cannot be worked with profit at Castle is false, and does injury to the camp. not feared that the advent of a railroad would result in sending the ores a long distance to be treated, as only 45 per cent. ores at the least would pay. The Cumberland's capacity is sufficiently large to smelt all the present product of the camp, and should the supply increase everything is in readiness to erect a second furnace.

The reported rich discoveries in the Flat creek district, in Missoula county, recently neticed in these columns, appear to have attracted some attention, as will be gleaned from the Missoulian: There is evidently considerable excitement in different parts considerable excitement in different parts of the territory over the mineral prospects on Fiat creek and other points in that lotime his mind was deranged.

Among these was a sugar bowl, and the thieves Further investigation proved that who-ever the burgiars are, they are experts, as locked doors proved no barrier. In several doors the keys had been turned, and pushed back just far enough to permit them to drop partly and hang in the key-hole, thereby preventing any noise.

pushed back just far enough to permit them to drop partly and hang in the keyhole, thereby preventing any noise.

In Judge Wade's house the burgiars entered the basement, where a number of trunks are kept. These were searched, but Mrs. Wade does not know what was taken from them. The only thing missing is the judge's overcoat. The footprints around the house showed there were two of the prowiers and that they had looked into each window. They forced a basement window in the front which had been fastened by a few nails. In the morning the window was found resting against the house. About 3 o'clock in the morning Mrs. Wade was awakened by a noise, and after listening a few moments she arose and lighted a lamp and walked through the house. While on the first floor she heard footsteps on the stairway leading from the basement, but these suddenly stopped and she retired to her room firmly impressed with the belief that some one was in the house, and she told the judge so. She also says she saw a light flash as though from a lantern, but Judge Wade attributed this to the electric light.
